Miele & Blick Rothenberg

Cooking up a solid relationship

Miele has been a client of Blick Rothenberg for over 50 years.

Miele is one of the biggest names in the manufacture of high quality domestic appliances and commercial equipment.

Founded in 1899 in Germany, it wasn't until 1963 that they made the decision to come to the UK. One of the first steps Miele took when deciding to come to the UK was to seek the advice of Blick Rothenberg, who helped provide guidance on all aspects of entering the UK market, including corporate entity formation and other fiscal requirements.

The reason for Blick Rothenberg and Miele's long-standing relationship is in part down to their shared values. Both organisations have a strong focus on quality, technology, premium service delivery and looking after their people.

Miele continues to experience great success and recently launched a new collection of built-in cooking appliances, Generation 7000. Miele also won Which? Magazine's 'Large Home Appliance Brand of the Year 2019', the fourth time in five years that they have won the award.

Blick Rothenberg continues to handle Miele's annual audit and accounts, as well as undertaking special projects as and when needed, allowing them to concentrate fully on their core competencies.

The reason for Blick Rothenberg and Miele's long-standing relationship is in part down to their shared values.
