

hether you are an ambitious, fast-growing start-up seeking to disrupt your marketplace, or an established business looking to explore further global opportunities, there are numerous potential challenges to overcome.

These might include the complexities of overseas staff hires, adhering to international tax compliance, acquiring an international business, consolidating the number of vendors you work with or centralising your business functions and systems.

How we can help?

At Blick Rothenberg, we take away your administrative burdens by acting as an extension of your team, leaving you to focus on your core business. We can support you throughout your entire business lifecycle by advising on the options available to you at each stage of your growth, both in the UK and globally. Providing everything from tax and advisory services to fully outsourced financial administration and accounting services, we make your success our priority.

Adapting our solutions as your business evolves, we are your single partner for growth, giving you a competitive edge and ensuring that your business remains compliant.

Why are we different

There are three key reasons why you should choose us as your business partner:

A single partner for global growth

As part of the BKR International network, we can support your growth anywhere.

Working with clients across six continents and more than 90 countries, we provide the tax and compliance expertise you need at a local level in the jurisdictions where you operate, and we will liaise with your suppliers and customers in your local time zones.

We work with the same firm in each country, over extended time periods, to ensure you receive a consistently high standard of service.

And we also speak your language. This isn't just in a linguistic sense, although our Outsourced Business Services team based in London do speak over thirty languages between them. We also explain matters in terms that are familiar to you.

Industry-leading technology

With a focus on expansion, it is key that you have real-time, 24-7 access to your accounting information, across all your countries and companies.

Our ongoing investment in technology, including best-in-class software and platforms, ensures that you always have access to the right tools to support your changing needs and complex reporting requirements.

As well as round-the-clock access, our industry-leading, secure, cloud -based client user-interface provides you with a fully automated expense claims management system, an invoice and document approval system and a document and information management system.

And security of your accounting information is key. Our controls, systems, IT security, business continuity and disaster recovery procedures are audited annually. We have also passed bespoke audits from NYSE, NASDAQ and FTSE 100-listed groups.
